SAYS CITY SHOULD GET THROUGH YEAR WITHOUT AN EXTRA APPROPRIATION

Discussing the condition of the city finances as shown by the city treasurer's statement of receipts and expenditures reported at the March council meeting, Mayor H. M. Lerou said Tuesday that he was confident the city would get through this year without having to appear the experience of last year when a special city meeting had to be called to make an extra appropriation of $25,000 before the year closed.

Attention had been called to the fact that the estimates of receipts in several city departments were not anywhere near the actual receipts and expenditures.

On the other hand, the city council promised to make up for some of these in accurate estimates, as it is now $3,000 ahead of what it was estimated would be derived from that source.

The last item was one of Old City Hall, which was estimated at $10,000, but the actual receipts were $13,000.

While the public works department shows a considerable overdraw in ordinary expenses and macadam repairs, it had some work put out by vote of the city meeting for which there was no appropriation. In this was the improvement of Lincoln avenue, which it was stated in the city meeting would cost $800 and which was started before the present administration took hold. It cost $2,200 for supply instead of $800. This was charged to macadam repairs.

Much work of a permanent character has been done by the public works department, an aid has been the policy, said the mayor, to do permanent work rather than that of a temporary character. In this line was the concrete roadway put in at both ends of Water street at a cost of $5,000. This likewise was charged to the macadam repairs account.

The question was between repairing the macadam or putting in a permanent road and the decision was for the permanent construction.

The public works department has been under expense of about $1,000 to repair fences. The city has to look after this. This includes the old canal bridge, the East Main street opposite the silk mill, Central avenue, Seventh street, North Main street near the innery, Thames street, Hamilton street, Yantic street, Boech street, Platt avenue, School street, West Thames street, Mt. Pleasant street and Asylum street. The plank bridge on Hickory street, said Mayor Lerou, was in a dangerous condition and was replaced by a permanent concrete bridge at a cost of $270. Repairs to the roller, mixer and other machinery have cost $1,000.

The public works department is due to receive a considerable reimbursement, said the mayor, from the money to be derived from the anticipated $100,000 bond issue for permanent roads as the stone crushing plant has been kept running with the double object of providing the men with work and accumulating a fund to supply the work on the permanent highway construction. There is now a large quantity of stone on hand all ready for the work to begin and it will be proper to charge this to this new project and reimburse the public works department.
